

ABSTRACT

A device for clearing of fluid or gas passageways. The device uses a first cylinder having an external thread, and an internal piston. Another cylinder has an internal thread for screwing on the thread of the first cylinder for forcing the piston through the first cylinder. The first cylinder extrudes gas or liquid under pressure.